

GERMANIC CHIEFS TO ENCIRCLE RUSS

Simultaneous Advance of All the Teuton Forces Held to Mean Move On to Surround.

RIGA IS AN OBJECTIVE POINT

LONDON, July 18.—The German move through Courland is believed by military observers to be directed at Riga on the Baltic, and seems to be gathering force.

The armies which General von Hindenburg is thought to be commanding also are exerting such pressure southward from the east Prussian frontier that the Russians admittedly are drawing back their line along the Narov. In the Franzens region Petrograd claims the Russian troops are doing better than holding their own.

Both the Austrians and Germans are again active on the fronts of southern Poland near the Russian border in Galicia. The simultaneous advance of all the Teutonic armies is considered to indicate the beginning of an attempt to encircle the Russian forces.

Reports from the Austro-Italian front indicate continuation of the difficult fighting in mountainous territory with no material advances claimed by either side.

Continuation of the heavy fighting of the past few days which has tossed the lines of each side to and fro along the battle front in France is indicated in the latest official reports.

German Attacks Repulsed. Paris records the repulse of two German attacks in the Argonne, which has been the scene of many of the recent engagements. It also tells of the breaking up by artillery fire of an attempt by the Germans to recapture trenches at Ban de Sapt in the Vosges which they recently lost and the breaking up of an assault in the forest of Parroy in Lorraine.

to disregard the rules of international law. Secretary Lansing said tonight he would have no announcement to make on the subject until it had been brought to his attention in an official way by some of the Americans who were on the ship. It is believed the German embassy will submit the statement of the Orduna's captain to the German government.

Comes as Shock. The news of the attempt on the Orduna came as a shock in official circles, for it had been believed as a result of the informal explanations of Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador and press dispatches from Berlin concerning the care being exercised by German submarines that Americans on board passenger vessels, at least would be safe from attack. The incident increased the general uneasiness which has been felt since the last German note failed to give the assurance asked for by the United States.

The belief was general that when President Wilson laid the entire situation before the cabinet next Wednesday there would be insistence by many cabinet officers for a much firmer and more emphatic pronouncement of the intentions of the United States than might otherwise have been the case, but for today's report of the attack on the Orduna.

The conviction had become widespread that the negotiations could continue if the situation were not aggravated by further violations of American rights. This was based largely on the absence of any cases of attack without warning in several weeks.

Case of Nebraskan. The only important case of attack without warning that has occurred since the Lusitania was sunk is that of the American steamer Nebraskan, also bound for the United States and without cargo. Germany has expressed regrets for that occurrence and agreed to pay damages, but it was pointed out tonight that the United States took the position in its first note after the sinking of the Lusitania that expressions of regret and offers of reparation do not lessen the dangers to American citizens on the high seas unless followed by a discontinuance of the practice complained of.

Although Secretary Lansing, after an exchange of letters with President Wilson, has practically nullified the draft of a note which will be discussed by the cabinet next Tuesday, it was considered possible that some reference might be made to the Orduna and included in the next note to Germany. On the other hand, officials may decide to await a report from Ambassador Gerard as to the German government's version of the affair. This may be delayed for several weeks, as in past experience German submarines have returned to their base to report only after long intervals have elapsed.

Writing of Note. That the American note to Germany probably will be written in the light of the Orduna's experience, however, was indicated by officials. They pointed out that the suggestion that a change in the practice of German submarine commanders in attacking vessels primarily engaged in passenger trade no longer seemed tenable.

No intimation has been given as yet in official quarters of what the next American note would contain, but it was said that America would doubtless hint in the Orduna case there was further violation of its rights.

The note will probably be brief and, according to well-informed opinion, will be in the form of a warning that subsequent violations of the principles contended for by the United States will be viewed as hostile acts, making difficult the continuance of diplomatic relations.

Preparations to Leave. CORNISH, N. H., July 18.—His views on the German situation in tentative shape, President Wilson tonight began making preparations for his departure for Washington to take up with Secretary Lansing and other members of his cabinet the next step in the American policy toward submarine warfare. There were indications here that the president does not expect to delay long in notifying Germany of the position of the United States. Members of his cabinet are understood to be unanimously back of his determination to assert the rights of Americans to "the freedom of the seas," and therefore only the details of the next

Minister's Prediction Comes True While Words Are in His Mouth

"The Lord will shake the earth! The Lord will shake the earth!" he declared Rev. Dr. Brandt of Chicago, Presbyterian mission board secretary, at Westminster church yesterday morning just as the heavens loosened their batteries of hail and bombarded Omaha.

The church roof vibrated and then trembled while the roar of ice upon the edifice drowned the tones of the minister. Some hail stones shattered a skylight and struck some of the worshippers on their heads. The congregation, however, waited without leaving their seats till the minister could proceed.

Mr. Brandt was speaking of world movements now under way and after mentioning the European war he prophesied that other manifestations of the divine presence would be felt.

M. F. Gould, who owns an extensive vineyard at 543 Ames avenue, suffered a loss of approximately $500 from the hail.

Leaves and small branches are scattered thickly over the streets and sidewalks in the West Farnam district and in Dundee as a result of the hail, but aside from a few windows being broken no serious damage resulted. Benson seems to have been more severely handled and chickens were reported killed, many windows were broken and several green houses in the vicinity were left almost completely without glass, that of O. C. Knudsen being almost completely wrecked.

The hail storm yesterday did some damage to the roof of the dancing pavilion at the Field club, tearing away some of the shingles and causing some leaks. The extent of the damage is not yet known, but is not serious.

The green houses at Hanscom park suffered considerably from the hail yesterday, but the flowers were not greatly affected. The number of panes broken amounted to several hundred, but no other damage is reported.

Hundreds of electric lights, which were strung along the principal streets of Omaha downtown as part of the decorations for the Saengerfest which will be step remain to be finally determined upon. The German situation will be gone over in a general way at Tuesday's cabinet meeting, a final decision is expected to be reached at the next cabinet meeting Friday.

The president will leave here prepared to take up a number of important questions soon after reaching Washington. He will select a successor to Mr. Lansing as counselor of the State department, go fully into the Mexican problem and take up with Mr. Lansing the projected protest against interference by Great Britain with commerce between the United States and other neutral nations.

During his three weeks' visit here in the Cornish hills, Mr. Wilson's health has improved and he has gained several pounds in weight. Members of his family will remain here after his departure and he will return later if possible.

The president played golf this morning and went automobile riding this afternoon.

BROKEN BOW WATER PLANT CONTRACT SET ASIDE BROKEN BOW, Neb., July 18.—(Special.)—At an adjourned meeting of the city council, City Attorney Sullivan stated that the contract between the city and the Alamo Engine and Supply company of Omaha for the construction of the new water and electric light plant, was void for the reason that the council had accepted a bid in excess of the stipulated amount. The plans and specifications bid on called for an electrolytic, or ornamental street lighting system. The city bid but $2,000 to spend on it and all bids were far in excess of this sum. The Alamo people in order to get within the $2,000 limit, eliminated the electrolytic part and their bid was accepted. According to the city attorney, the council had no right to eliminate anything from the plans in order to accept the bid. All bids were therefore rejected and Engineer Sturtevant of Holdrege was instructed to prepare a new set of plans including an electrolytic system.

SITUATION IN WELSH COAL MINES WORSE

Members of Executive Council of Union and Walter Runciman Reach No Agreement.

PINCH OF STRIKE BEING FELT

LONDON, July 17.—The members of the executive council of the South Wales Coal Miners' organization, who came to London to confer with Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, have returned to Cardiff, having found it impossible to reach a basis for new negotiations in the coal dispute. There is now no hope of the men returning to work before the middle of next week, if they do then. Already some industries in South Wales are being hampered by a shortage of coal.

Besides their original terms, of which the principal demand was a 5 per cent raise in wages, the men now insist on the cancellation of the royal proclamation bringing miners under the "no-strike" act. Meantime the tribunal set up under this measure is preparing to act unless the meeting of miners' delegates to be held in Cardiff Monday to receive a receipt of the legislative council regarding their visit to London, shows some sign of compromise, the tribunal will commence sessions to try the men guilty of striking.

In order to conserve the coal supplies steps are being taken to prevent any leaving the country. Neutral steamers hereafter will be allowed only sufficient coal to carry them to their first port, and exports are being strictly curtailed.

At Forty-ninth and Dodge streets, just as the hailstorm began, a man appeared driving a horse and buggy. In order to protect the defenseless horse from the hail, pedestrians who had scrambled to shelter emerged from the drug store at the corner and led the horse into the covered vestibule at the front entrance. The horse stood there in the entrance of the store until the storm was over.

BRITISH WOMEN BEG FOR CHANCE TO AID

Fifty Thousand March in Parade Voicing Demand Government Use Them in Munitions Works.

THEY CALL ON LLOYD GEORGE

LONDON, July 18.—Enormous crowds of women thronged Victoria embankment today, despite a drizzling rain, to participate in the women's procession voicing the demand that the British government utilize women in the work of making ammunition and in replacing the men.

It is estimated that 50,000 marchers, led by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, founder of the Women's Social Political union, were in the ranks, which contained many titled women, including Lady Colebrook and Lady Knollis and Mrs. Waldorf Astor.

The main body was made up of groups representing France, Russia, Japan, Serbia and Poland in national costumes.

Thousands of banners were borne in the procession and a hundred bands played stirring music. Some of the inscriptions on the banners read: "Shells made by a wife may save a husband," "British women will beat the German women," "Women will save England."

The main thoroughfares of the city were packed and the marchers were given an enthusiastic greeting. The women proceeded to the ministry of munitions, where the demands of the marchers were presented to David Lloyd George, the head of the department.

The minister of munitions told the deputation of women that something like 50,000 women already were working at various factories in the production of munitions. It was not a question of competition between male and female labor, he said, but of getting men and women to work together to help the country through the worst crisis it has experienced.

First Thing Necessary. The first thing, continued Mr. Lloyd George, was to get an adequate supply of machinery and tools, and the government was assuming the control of all machine and tool making establishments in the country. Women who come forward to serve must give their whole time. There must be real national organization for all women who are prepared to take up munition work.

Secondly, added the minister, there must be a sufficient number of women trained to direct and instruct others. In regard to wages, women would be paid the same piece-rate as men and all establishments will be under government control, while the government would see that there was no "sweated labor."

Without women, he declared, victory would tarry and victory which tarried meant victory "whose footprints were footprints of blood."
